Mexico's Difficulties Likely to be Ironed Out on United States Soil

Tentative peace proposals have been made, and on the administration side have been acted on. On the vital point of why they were of certain that the tentative arrangement would within a short time result in a scaled compact of peace father and son were silent. They answered recely every question.

When the clider Madero and Limanour met recently the very meeting ras denied, let alone a discussion of erms for possible peace. Today it was admitted that the interview concerned peace alone.

"With only the resignation of the cabinet as an evidence of good faith, would you care to trust yourself on Mexican soil to take up the question of the cessation of marfare?" Don Gustavo Madero was asked today.

"Well, scarcely," smiled the latter.
On this point nothing more definite was obtainable, but the inference was left that San Antonio is destined to be, in a less important way, another Portsmouth.

Diaz to "Save His Face."

President Dias, it was said, would be allowed to "save his face." He would retire with all the honors due his distinguished services. Senor Limantour was firm on this point as the basis of preliminary negotiations: "Senor Madero agreed, admitting, however, that his acquisecance was subject to mestice rejection by his son Francisco and other army leaders. He did not fear an adverse vots, however.

New Election Must be Held.

The basic concessions which it is believed will be ratified later include a specification of the Diaz cabinet and appointment of younger man to eir positions. This already has been complished. The next is the resignation of Diaz and the holding of an ection where the suffrage shall be constrained and free. This arrangement includes the elimination of Vice resident Corral, a sick man, than hom, it is said, there is probably no ore popular person in Mexico.

The board of aldermen also paved the way for an ordinance making fire drills compulsory in city factories.

After many had turned away a man opened one of the doors and they escaped.

Men Sent to Kill the Woman.

Viterbo, Italy, March 28.—The Camorrist informer Abbatemaggio was on the witness stand today for five hours, giving testimony against his former associates, who are on trial for the murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife. Finally he became so greatly fatigued that he asked for an adjournment of the case, so he might rest. He was roundly denounced by the prisoners.

,000 Francs for Cuoccolo Murders. 1,000 Francs for Cuoccelo Murders.

Abbatemaggio described at great length his own criminal life and finally recounted in detail the circumstances leading to the murder of Cuoccelo. He said that Nicola Morra had proposed the murder and that Giovanni Rapi had insisted upon not only the murder of Cuoccelo, but also Cuoccelo's wife and had put 1,000 francs at the disposal of the assassins, to be certain that there would be no failure.

Two Men to Kill the Woman. He insisted further that two men be sent to kill the woman, one for the purpose of smothering her cries, as the house in which she resided was di-rectly opposite a police office.

Witness Becomes Exhausted When he became exhausted with his recifals, Abbatemaggio asked President Biancha for a postponement of the sitting, saying he was suffering from an injured foot. He promised he would tell tomorrow how he became acquainted with all the secrets of the Camorra.

Prisoners Shake Fists at Him. The excitement, which throughout had been intense, now broke all bounds. The prisoners jumped to their feet and shook their fists at the witness, Rapi called out: "It is not your foot from which you suffer; it is fear." Nicola Morra exclaimed: "I never aw a greater coward.

"He is a Phonograph." "He isn't a man; he is a phonograph," cried Erricone, the chief of the Camorrists, alluding to a report that a German company had urged Abbatemaggio to permit records of his testimony to be taken.

De Marinis shouted: "The phonograph begins to be out of tune."

Cursed by the Prisoners.

Abbatemaggio was then led out by a strong guard, followed by the curses of the prisoners.

Tuskegee, Ala., March 28.—Booker T. Washington today returned from his New York trip. Asked concerning a report that he would drop the prosecution of Albert Ulrich, who attacked him in New York, he declared it had no foundation.

Washington, March 28.—There was much discussion of the relationship of state banks to the proposed national reserve association at a conference to-day between the national monetary commission and the currency committee of the American Bankers' association over the Aldrich currency bill. All the members of both the monetary and currency commissions appeared to recognize the necessity of taking care of state institutions, and a number of suggestions were made.

The plan which appeared to receive the most favorable consideration was one looking to the bringing of state banks under federal charters. It was suggested that this end might be secondlished by broadening the privileges of the national banks.
